

ALEXANDRIA.

MONDAY EVENING, JULY 18.

KEEP COOL. Very good advice, you say, but very impracticable; with the thermometer verging on 100°, how can one keep cool? Absolutely, you may not be able to do so. Gilder has not yet started for the north you can't get there immediately. We have science and clean, delicate modesty of Hon. John S. Barbour in his direction of his parseen no advertisement of an excursion to Alaska, or to Greenland, and the overland travel in the former trip would probably finish you before you got to the sea. Portner's beer vaults and the various ice houses about town are accessible to but few, and even the river trips, the most practicable means at the command of people in general, went accomplish the end in view unless the wind is ahead. You must, therefore, do the best you can; get out of doors into the shade it possible; if not, take off your coat, work slowly and don't let things fret you. Recall the coldest day of last winter, when the northwest wind howled through the streets and threatened to take off your ears before you could get home, and make as vivid a picture of it, by your imagination, as possible. Imagination has a great deal to do with a man's comfort or discomfort Don't talk politics; don't get angry don't say to everybody that passes, "Is it hot enough for you to-day?" but reflect that you are not running up a big bill for coal, and that even your gas bills will be smaller in September than usual, and, above all, that it can't possibly get much hotter. These things will make you feel cooler, and, perhaps, with the aid of a palm leaf fan and a pitcher of ice water, you'll be able to worry through the heated term, and rejoice when the thunder peals sound from the northwestern sky and the big drops come down fast to cool the parched bosom of old mother earth and rescue all nature from the fiery fornace. Relatively, you may keep cool.

"BETTER LATE than never." The administration has been slow in "turning the tascals out," and, indeed, has been very slow in finding out who the rascals are; but recent developments have shown, in a startling manner, the necessity of ascertaining it, and the work appears to have begun in earnest. Let us hope that it will not only be prosecuted with such diligence and followed up with such determination to "let no guilty man escape," but that such changes will be made in the matter of keeping and auditing accounts that defalcations will become practically impossible. "The era of good stealing" is past, and Mercury seems to be no longer in the ascendant. The "boodle" aldermen of New York are spending the heated term in Canada, with a prospect of having to face many Canadian winters, or are locked up in Sing Sing; even Jake Sharp is about to get a taste of retributive justice, and the Chicago "boodlers' seem likely to do so likewise. Why, then, should Uncle Sam wait till his horse is stolen before he locks his stable door? No man who don't want to steal will complain of measures being taken which make it impossible to do so; only the cheat prates about his honor and resents the proper precautions taken to secure his honesty. "Short settlements," says the proverb, "make long friends;" they will, also, make faithful officers. Let them become the rule, and the people will give this democratic administration the credit.

THE lowest point indicated by a registering thermometer in this city between sundown yesterday and daybreak this morning was 77°. Soon after daylight the mercury began to run up rapidly, and at ten o'clock indicated 96°. The hottest temperature reported yesterday was at Augusta, Ga., where the mercury reached 104°. Norfolk and Leavenworth, Kan., each reported 100. At Cincinnati and Washington 99 was reported, and at Chicago and St. Louis 98. At New York the highest point reached was 91°. Deaths from sun strokes are reported from various cities.

PRECOCIOUS DEPRAVITY .- At Barnwell, S. C., Saturday, Judge Hudson sentenced Axey Cherry, a colored girl twelve years old, to be hanged on the third Friday in September, for the murder of the infant of Mr. Amos Williams, of Allendale, in Barnwell county. The child was sent by her mother to act as nurse for the Williams baby. She poked around the house and attended to her duties in so negligent a manner that she had to be constantly scolded. After a scolding one day she was overheard muttering to herself that she was not going to bother with that baby much more. few days after this, concentrated lye was scouring the floor, and when Mrs. Williams left the room for a few minutes she told Axey that the lye was poisonous and that she mustn't touch it. On her return, Mrs. Williams was horrified to find her baby's mouth full of concentrated lye. by a farmer named Turner, near Union City, Axey ran out of the house, saying as she baby much longer now." The young mur-deress all through her trial seemed to have no idea of the terrible nature of her deed, the secret for two days. Finally Mrs. Turnand when she was sentenced to be hanged, er learned the truth, but Thomas had mean she gazed stupidly at the judge, and grinned as she played with the buttons on her dress.
As she was being carried back to jail she took place Saturday, a large crowd being saw her father, and made an effort to go to him. She cried for the first time when she was told that she could not go home, but him out among a dozen colored men. must go back to jail to await the day for

FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Correspondence of the Alexa. GAZETTE WASHINGTON, D. C., July 18, 1887. Delegate Ryan, of Loudoun county, While affecting to know no more of the Virginia political situation than ordinary folks, what he does know he seems to comprehend pretty well. Republican success in the State election next fall he now considers a ridiculous improbability. The democratic Roanoke convention, which he did not believe at the outset to be either a piece of political necessity or a piece of sound political strategy, will, he thinks, in no way burt the prospect of a victory for that party. It may not be a great, gushing and tumultuous gathering of the faithful, but it is sure to be a clever, patriotic and representative body, respectable in its personnel and orderly in all its deliberations. The smaller its numbers the more harmonious are likely to be its proceedings. The extremists on neither side will be able, he believes, to "touch off" any dangerous firebrand or confuse the main purpose of the convention, to hold the State and to keep on guard the men most interested in her every welfare. Col. Ryan, in the course of his conservative observations, brought out a fact highly illustrative of the clear conty's affairs in Virginia. Mr. Barbour does not perceive the law or even the custom of his party, which permits a commander chosen for a particular campaign to hold on and over until a sucsuccessor is dragged, as it were, to the front by the course of events or circumstances belonging to a later period than the one covered by the original selection. A new campaign, involving new issues, should be found to the found to be fought with a new commander, or else the old one should be endorsed by the new representatives coming directly from the people. This, said Ryan, was Barbour's view of the matter, and contrasting his course with that of the republican management in a similar regard was too fatiguing in a torrid spell of weather such as we are now having to dilate on. Gen. Mahone, he supposed, would have no superfluous thing like a convention of his party or even tolerate the legislation of one. (Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.)

MARSHALL, July 16, 1887.—With us it is hot! hot! with the thermometer in the 903 daily. We have had heavy showers of rain which will ensure abundant crops of corn and hay. Our farmers have nearly completed stacking their wheat crop and some have begun to thresh. The yield will be fully one-third less than the average quanti-Some other industry must be tried since for three or four years past wheat culture has absorbed nearly all the profits. Our neighbors about Warrenton have found a creamery to pay and it is to be hoped that the farmer's club, lately organized at Marshall, will discuss the advantages of such a scheme.

The graziers have begun to ship from our depot small lots of fat cattle. At 4 cents per pound cattle weighing from twelve to fifteen hundred pounds gross must prove remunerative. Mr. Marshall Lake and Ma-jor T. R. Foster have splendid specimens of this stock on their farms.

The young folks of Marshall and The Plains have had an enjoyable time on the occasion of a scenic theatrical performance styled "Down by the Sea." As usual the Good Templars are propos ing to hold their annual bush meeting about the 20th of August, either in a grove near The Plains or Marshall. The weather certainly favors the "dries." Along the political horizon of our Piedmont country all at present is calm. The late letter of President Cleveland declining to visit St. Louis and to be exposed to the insults of the so called G. A. R. has the ring of a true man, and it is to be hoped that the New South as well as every genuine American will seek to recollect Mr. Cleveland for a second term.

Cattle Disease in Loudoun.

LEESBURG, Va., July 18 .- Mr. Charles E. Powell has lost three cattle in the last few yard, some hay barns, a hay press and days, and becoming alarmed about them, he several cars were burned yesterday. Loss sent to the Agricultural Bureau for a veterinary. Dr. Rose of that department came up on Saturday and has pronounced the disease Texas or Southern fever. In addition to the cattle lost Mr. P. has two more seriously affected and one or two more with indications of the disease. As the disease is not contagious except from contact, there is not much anxiety among neighboring farmers. The great troubl Powell is that he has those Mr. lots of cattle that have come in contact with the southern cattle, and the disease has ex hibited itself in each herd. He is an extensive grazier and has other cattle that are free from danger, but one of the infected herds are fine fat cattle. Dr. Rose says that good rains and cool weather will have the effect of, in a measure, abating the disease, and we hope for the sake of Mr. Powell we may be blessed with both. JA. BEE.

26 00 fferings. The Wheat markets, though firmer in tone and rather more active, show little or no advance in prices; dry, perfectly sound milling samples may be noted a shade higher and are in constant demand, but sweaty, garlicky and inferior grades are taken at figures nearer their relative value than usual at this season, owing to the large percentage of that class of Wheat among the receipts, sales running as to condition from 60 to 82. Corn is steady. Rye and Oats are quiet. Butter, Eggs and other produce can only be sold at reduced prices, and this market, like all others, is abundantly supplied.
